

Level 3 Certificate/Diploma in Criminology

This course is to be studied alongside two A Levels.

Course Overview

Criminology is an increasingly popular subject for students who are interested in a career in criminal justice or studying criminology at university. The subject explores why people commit crime, drawing on explanations from psychology and sociology, along with how society tackles crime through the law, policing and punishment. Students learn about different types of crime, how people's perceptions of crime are shaped and how crimes are investigated.

A range of teaching methods are used, including independent study, flipped learning, lectures, group activities and tasks, peer learning.

Please note: Whilst this course sits within our A Level provision and can be taken alongside other A Levels, the qualification you will gain at the end of the programme is a WJEC Level 3 Diploma, rather than an A Level.

What You Will Study

- Changing awareness of crime: types of crime, perceptions of crime and unreported crime.
- Media representations of crime and of official data on crime.
- Crime campaigns and their effectiveness.
- Criminological theories: Why do people commit crime? Theories of criminality from biology, psychology and sociology.
- Crime scene to Courtroom: the criminal justice system from investigation to verdict – personnel and techniques involved in criminal investigations and courtroom procedures.
- Crime and Punishment: law making, criminal justice, forms and functions of punishment.
